For the prevention and cure of ILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS is recommended
HN's ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS
THIS Medicine has been attended a degree of success highly grateful he inventer s feelings in several parts he West Indies and in the Southern Middle States, &c.
The testimony of a number of person be adduced, who have reason to bee that a timely use of this salutary rely has, under Providence, preserved
r lives when in the most alarming cirnstances.
Facts of this conclusive nature speak re in favour of a medicine than cons of pompous eulogy founded on e assertion.
t is not indeed presumptuously pro-ed as an infallible cure, but the invenhas every possible reason that can ret from extensive experience for be-ving that a dose of these Pills taken e in every two weeks during the prelence of our bilious fevers, will prove infallible preventive; and further,
t in the earlier stages of those diseases r use will very generally succeed in storing health, and frequently in cases eemed desperate and beyond the pow-of common remedies.
The operation of these pills is perfectly ld, so as to be used with safety by per-ns in every situation and of every age.
They are excellently adapted to carry superfluous bile and prevent its mord secretions—to restore and amend the petite—to produce a free perspiration d thereby prevent colds which are of-n of fatal consequences. A dose never ils to remove a cold if taken on its first pearance: they are celebrated for re-oving habitual costiveness—sickness at e stomach and severe head-ache—and ght to be taken by all persons on a nange of climate.
They have been found remarkably effitious in preventing and curing disorers attendant on long voyages, and hould be procured and carefully preserv-d for use by every seaman.

From the American Watchman.

THE TREBLE VOICE.

That voice—O, how its warblings thrill
Each nerve with rapture, while I hear!
While every earthly thought is still,
And none but purest pleasures fill
My senses, crowding at my ear.

Hark—how it swells! so swells my soul
With joy exalted, pure and holy;
It rises! Earth, thy base control
I spurn! Adieu, vain world of folly!

For I disclaim all grovelling joys—
I feast on sound—I live on song—
I raise immortal with that voice,
To Heaven, where all such strains belong.

In tender cadence now it falls—
Breathes gently through the sacred dome,
Like the angelic tone that calls
A kindred spirit to its home.

'Tis ended—but the lovely strain
Still breathes delight on fancy's ear:
Mortal I find myself again,
I know it by this starting tear.

'Tis not my present sense alone
That wakes, sweet LAURA, at thy song;
But images of pleasures flown,
Around the seat of memory throng.

For then I think of other days,
When ONE, with heart as pure as thine,
Beside me rais'd the hymn of praise,
And blended all her soul with mine.

Sing on, fair warbler! O, restore
The dear illusion to my view;
To soothe my widowed heart once more
The dream of past delights renew.

NEW VARIETY STORE.

The subscribers inform their friends and the public that they have formed a copartnership, which will be known by the name of

PERTINAX PERIOD & CO.

and have taken a room in an attic story adjoining the printing-office of the New-England Galaxy, where they intend to keep a general asortment of

LITERARY COMMODITIES,

of ancient and modern, foreign and domestic manufacture, suitable for all ages, ranks, conditions, tastes, appetites, caprices, prejudices, whims and fancies. From the extensive connexions they have formed abroad, they trust they shall be able to tickle the humors of the most fastidious lover of imported knick-knacks, whether philosophical, theological, or ethological, physical, metaphysical, or critical. Contigious to their ware room, they have established a ware manufactory, furnished with a plentiful supply of raw materials, and expert artists, from which they expect to be able to satisfy the more esurient but less squeamish appetite of those who prefer indigenous products to foreign fabrications.

PERTINAX PERIOD,
SIMEON SCALPUM.
NICHOLAS NOBODY.

N. B. Orders solicited, and executed in the neatest and most expeditious manner, and every favour gratefully acknowledged.

Addresses and Orations, for all occasions whatsoever, made at short notice, and of the finest materials.

Candidates for the bar, the pulpit, or the rostrum, supplied with figures of rhetoric, in any quantity, and taught the true and legitimate use of the Epanaphora, Ecphonesis, Erotesis, and Synchoresis.

Constitutions for Cent Societies, Tract Societies, Temperate and Intemperate Societies, always on hand by the thousand, gross, or single.

College Exercises in prose or verse, and in various languages, such as Hebrew, Chinese, Patagonian, Bengalese, and Shawanese.

Dissertations and Essays upon all things, of all dimensions, for all purposes, and adapted to all capacities.

Sermons, for young preachers, fabricated,—and for old ones, turned and altered to the fashion of the times—also skeletons of Sermons covered, resuscitated, invigorated and decorated with such apparel as may best suit the purchasor.

Speeches for young debutants at town meetings, caucuses, and other popular assemblies, warranted to procure an office for the speaker.

Toasts for public or private dinners, in bundles of eighteen each, well assorted, and volunteers given gratis.

With many other useful articles, not reducible to alphabetical classification.

N. B. Secundus. The senior partner of our firm served a regular apprenticeship in the shop of Messrs. Colon & Spondee, at Walpole, N. H. well known a few years since, as the conservatory of polite literature. At the dissolution of their partnership, they gave him, in token of their approbation for his faithful services, their patent STYLE POLISHER, the same which the LAY PREACHER used in preparing for the press those inimitable essays which appeared in the Farmer's Museum, from 1794 to 1800. It is of wonderful service in adjusting epithets, clearing obscurities, smoothing turgescences, refining vulgarities, and polishing periods. Professors of rhetoric in any of our colleges shall be indulged with the use of it, in our shop, so long as they continue to patronize the New-England Galaxy.

N. B. Tertius. We deem it proper to give this public notice to all whom it may concern, that one of us has assumed the censorship of the Boston Theatre for six months, and will immediately enter upon the duties of the office. Our Mr. Scalpum is duly qualified to take upon himself this high and momentous service; having in his study a solium criticum, a piece of furniture, probably not less ancient than the Grecian Aristophanes, and very possibly the same in which that poet reclined while composing his lampoons of Socrates, of which the chair used by the President of Harvard College on commencement days is but a clumsy imitation. Seated in this precious relict of antiquity, SIM intends to furnish reviews and criticisms for the public and puffs and plaster for the players. As he has screwed his integrity to the sticking place, it will be in vain for the managers to tempt him with a season ticket gratis, and all bribes and fees of any sort from the under players will be utterly unavailing. Though he may sometimes handle the faults of the players with "the gossamer glove of criticism," yet he will by no means suffer a jack pudding to indulge his propensity for smut and ribaldry without telling the audience that they ought to resent it. After this solemn assurance of sturdy plain dealing, it is hoped that no officious intruder upon the rights and privileges of our partner, will pretend that he is not entitled to the exclusive privilege of making and vending the aforesaid reviews, critiques, puffs, &c.

N. B. Quartus. As SIM's wife and children may visit the theatre now and then, those who play the clowns, are cautioned against saying more that is set down for them, or uttering before children ten years old, what people of fifty cannot understand.

N. B. Quintus. We have a Rebus Loom, which, having no use for it, we offer in exchange for a few dozen of original epigrams, well pointed. The loom is as good as new, and will weave in one day, enigmas, riddles, rebusses, charades, &c. sufficient to cap the columns of all the newspapers in the western hemisphere for the remainder of the present century.

P.P. S.S. N.N.

A most diabolical attempt to blow up a gentleman's gate in the neighborhood of Rutherglen was made about nine o'clock on Monday week.—A bomb shell had been procured, charged with gunpowder, and a hole dug in the ground immediately under the gate for its reception, which upon being fired, burst with a tremendous noise, to the great alarm of the whole neighborhood. Luckily however, tho' it took place near a public road, and at that early hour, no person was hurt by the explosion, neither was the gate injured, the bomb having instead of a perpendicular ascent, taken an oblique direction, scattering its splinters all around to the distance of several hundred yards. One of these broke a piece out of the lintel of a window, damaged the frame, and broke one of the panes in a neighboring house; another splinter, it appears, ascended with a greater angle, flying over the roofs of several houses; it lodged in the earth at a great distance from where the shell exploded; a third struck the trunk of a young tree, which it nearly cut half through, and otherwise much injuried. Two fragments of the shell have been found.

TO THE PUBLIC.

On the 15th of September, I sailed fr. Nassau, (N. P.) bound to Baracoa, laden with goods to the amount of one thousand two hundred dollars. This can easily be proved by my papers and the documents of the custom-house. On the 27th of the same month, arrived off the coast of Cuba; at 3 P. M, discovered a fishing boat, with two men, making towards us, and when at hailing distance, they enquired where I was bound to, and being informed that I was going to Baracoa, they supplicated me to give them a passage—observing that they were inhabitants of that place, and that their boat was leaky and about sinking, I by humanity gave them passage. On the 28th, at 4 P. M. being to the east of Punta Mulas, I was taken by a schr from Amelia, named Sarra, commanded by Edward Fennel, and owned by John Morrison, of that place. We were boarded without any kind of respect to the flag of his Britannic majesty, and, without examining the papers, commenced plundering—I was robbed of my watch, fourteen dollars & my clothes. At 8 A. M. the two vessels were anchored at a place named Orange Harbor.—These pirates proceeded to examine my papers, after which they decided on sending my crew ashore. This was immediately done; however, not before my poor fellows had been robbed of all they had. When they were landed on the beach, three muskets were fired at them for the purpose of forcing them to retire in the woods. At the place where we had anchored, there was a Spanish schr laden with tobacco, which was also taken. The two vessels were then ordered to the island of Amelia, and escorted by the privateer. On the 4th October, as we were about entering the harbor of the above mentioned place, we were boarded by the boat of the United States' brig Saranac, John Elton, Esquire, commander, which ordered us alongside of the brig.—The captain, after being informed of the circumstances which had brought us to that port, sent off a boat to order the privateer alongside also. The pirates were arrested and put on board of the Saranac; and, on the 6th, the Two Brothers was ordered to Savannah, with an officer, five men, the captain of the privateer and one of his sailors. When watering on Tekyl, the captain (Fennell) made his escape.

The same privateer, in her cruise before the last, had robbed from on board an English schr 1500 dollars belonging to an inhabitant of the island of St. Andros, one of the Bahamas.

I think it my duty to give this to the public, as it will keep them on their guard against the privateers fitted out at Amelia for no other purpose than that of plundering the vessels of all nations.

THE SEA SERPENT.

The following letter received on Wednesday morning is interesting, and we publish it with a view to attract our coasters and citizens to the subject. Perhaps it may lead to similar information from other sources, and possibly be the means of yet taking this huge and anomalous visitor in our waters.

Rye Neck, Oct. 21, 1817.

SILVANUS MILLER, Esq.

Sir, I observed in the Columbian of the 15th instant, a paragraph stating that an animal had been seen in Long-Island Sound, corresponding with the description of the Serpent lately seen in Gloucester harbor. That communication probably resulted from some observations which I made to you and several other gentlemen on the subject alluded to.—When I spoke of that occurrence, I had no idea that it would become the subject of newspaper remark; but since it has been publicly noticed, perhaps a more part cular detail of the circumstances may not be deemed improper.

On Sunday, the fifth instant, at ten o'clock, A. M. while standing a few rods from my house on Rye Neck, I observed at a distance to the southward and eastward of Mr. Ezekiel Halsted's dwelling on Rye Point, & perhaps not more than half a mile from the shore, a long, rough, dark looking body progressing rapidly up sound (towards N. York) against a brisk breeze, and a strong ebb tide.—Viewing it with my glass, convinced me it was a large living animal. His back, 40 or 50 feet of which was seen above water, appeared to be irregular, uneven, and deeply indented. I did not at this time remark that his head was more elevated above the water than the ridges or bumps on his back. Some trees standing near the water, Rye Point soon intercepting my view of him, I hastened to a situation from which I obtained another sight of him, as he passed that part of the sound opposite Hemp-stead Bay. At this time he appeared to be nearly in the middle of the sound—his body more depressed below and his head more elevated above the water, going with encreased velocity in the direction of Sand's Point, creating a swell before him not unlike that made by a boat towed rapidly at the stern of a vessel. From the time I first saw him till I lost sight of him, could not have exceeded ten minutes, in which short time he had gone not less than 6 or 7 miles.

Understanding that Mr. James Guion, a gentleman of character and respectability, had seen what was supposed to be the same animal, I yesterday conversed with him on the subject. He states that on Friday the 23d instant, while on the point of land on the east side of the mouth of the Mamaroneck harbor, he saw at a little distance from the rocks usually called the Scotch Caps, which lie at the extremity of Rye Point, a large animal going with great rapidity up Sound. He judged his speed to be little or no less than a mile in a minute. He describes the irregularity and unevenness of his back, about 50 feet of which appeared above the surface of the water much in the way in which I have done.

I was yesterday informed on creditable authority, that on the day on which I saw the above mentioned animal he was seen by some person at or in the vicinity of the light house on Sands' Point.

That it was a sea animal of great bulk, to me is certain.—That it is what is usually called a Sea Serpent, and the same which appeared in Gloucester harbor is only probable.

With much respect.
Sir, your's, &c.

MARGARITA.

From the Curracoa Courant of 13th September, received at this office by the General Jackson, we extract the following interesting paper. It is headed Manifesto to an impartial world.

Since God created the universe, or this huge abode of mortals, from which period we reckon an interval of more than six thousand years, there have been revolutions which have afflicted it with the destruction of the human species.

Venezuela occupies the last page in this dismal history. On the 19th April, of the year 1810, she tuned the sacred hymn of her emancipation, and among remarkable periods, she struggles against the strongest concussions to obtain it.

Glorious journies—brilliant and distinguished conflicts are the most irrefragable proofs of Venezuelian valor.

The island of Margarita, one of the principal and complete parts of the confederated states, reared likewise the standard of honor, and walked upon the tracks of her fellow-citizens.

On the 4th of May, of that same year, she deposed with the greatest moderation the Spanish commander; the same who, at the entrance of Monteverde, in Caracas, had been commissioned to afflict in the prisons of Puerto Cabello, among other Americans, the natives of Margarita.

Carthagena supported the cause of Venezuela in the year 1813; and a leader, chosen by the suffrages of the people, marched forward to break asunder the chains of his oppressed brethren.

They all blessed the work of their liberator; but in opening a new campaign, this same people was doomed again to suffer mournful vicissitudes: their unfortunate emigration, witnessed by the windward islands, presents one of the most melancholy pictures of honest families breathing by the mercy of foreign nations, whose generosity is stamped in the heart of every good American.

If Providence, casting an eye of compassion on their sufferings, should one day grant them the well deserved chart of their liberty, that they may have a government of their own to secure and protect the sacred rights of man, they shall by distinguished benefits require the religious hospitality which has been afforded to them by these friendly colonies.

The circle of their revolution is not yet closed. This furious vulcan is still emitting dreadful flames. The Independents are ambitious of their liberty; they demand to hold a seat among nations;—death cannot discourage them—they look upon him as a relief from ignominy.

Notwithstanding these liberal ideas, there are degenerated Americans, who, stooping servilely before the false idols of Iberia, have caused innumerable evils to the soil which gave them birth.

Against these only are directed the pointed steel of the freemen—their names are, by an unanimous voice, erased from the number of beings who beautify nature.

To conquer or to die is the alternative of the children of the great Columbia;—although struck by a panic, some of the eastern people have lately separated from the coalition, while Margarita, amid the hazards of war, looked up to them for a brave defence of their country.

The city of Cariaco fell in a manner not to be conceived, and her disorders may infect the adjacent countries. To preserve that union, on which so highly depends the safety of the states, Margarita received in her bosom the supreme government of Venezuela, convoked by general Morino; but on the 31st of May last, twelve days after its establishment, it withdrew from Margarita, and in our squadron proceeded towards Maturin;—and the island fluctuating alone, in the middle of dangers, blockaded at that time by two corvettes and five brigs, and threatened by a fresh naval force, far from desponding, confirmed the oath of the 17th Nov. when, with only fourteen muskets, she defeated, in ten pitched battles, the formidable hosts of general Morillo. Three thousand Republicans, whom the world has admired for their bravery, are this day with arms in their hands, determined to repel with undaunted vigor the attacks of tyranny.

Margarita will be reduced to ashes, but she shall not be enslaved. The enemy have sworn her destruction, and it appears that she will soon have to walk through the glorious field of Mars. She calls to the unprejudiced nations once more to fix their eyes upon her, and to be the spectators of this new and interesting scene, which shall not less excite their admiration than that which had diffused fear, terror and confusion among those who swore to enthrall her.

Great and generous nations! suffer not the phalanxes of our invaders to complete their baneful purposes—to destroy the peaceable inhabitants of Margarita.—Have compassion, ye men of the present age, on a small city which has given to the world sublime lessons of civic virtues, and if, by your generosity, she should be enabled to stand this glorious trial, she swears before heaven and earth that the wise and valorous Greece, were it now to exist in the meridian of its former glory, which had attracted the admiration of the world, it should doubtless envy the great sacrifices which the illustrious defenders of Margarita have been known to offer at the hallowed shrine of liberty, erected by the New World in the nineteenth century.

Margarita, June 19, 1817.

——The heart of man will scarce believe
The things, if thus believed, which make him grieve.

In the records of Yemen, for the hundred and forty-third year of the Hegyra, it is thus written:

IN THE NAME OF GOD! THE ONLY GREAT GOD! Give ear oh ye inhabitants of the earth unto the story of MENOUF, that ye may learn never to aspire after that which God has not permitted, and that ye may know how dangerous is the possession of power, and the gratification of ambitious desires.

Menouf, the son of Abouali, weary, of the occupations of the day, departed at the hour of sunset to ramble in the vallies which surrounded his humble abode.—The birds were retiring to their nests, and the distant peasants were resting from their toil. Not a cloud disturbed the serenity of the prospect, and the beams of the setting sun shone in untarnished glory.

Menouf alone was sad. Having been sent by his father to Mocha to dispose of certain commodities, he had seen a procession in which the sultan appeared in all his splendor and ever since that time his mind had been in the habit of making a comparison between his own abject condition and the glory of his sovereign.—He could see no reason why Providence should have made such a difference between two of its creatures. He planned schemes for the elevation of his condition;—but they were matured only to prove their impracticability. As he wandered along a sequestered part of the vallies, his thoughts reverted to their darling theme, and he again began to murmur. "Why,"—he exclaimed aloud, "is Menouf condemned to a life of laborious servitude, when his energies might effect something for the happiness of his fellow-beings?"

As he spoke, the heavens become on a sudden overcast with clouds. The shades of night seemed to have seized at once upon the vallies. Frequent flashes of vivid lightening were seen, accompanied by long peals of the most dreadful thunder. The rocks beneath him quaked to their foundation. Menouf stood petrified with astonishment; till the clouds parting in the midst, a ray of ineffable glory burst upon his gaze, and a form, resplendent with the bloom of paradise, and glowing with the lustre of immortality, stood revealed before him. His garments, which seemed partly dipped in the cerulean dye of Heaven, and partly bleached with the intense light of the sun, floated in dazzling folds upon the air.

"Mortal,"—he said in a voice that murmured with sounds not of earth,—"I come not to arriagn, but to instruct thee. I am the genius ZADORAN; I have heard they complaints. What is it that thou desirest?"—

"Power—wealth—release from labor—from galling servitude"—was the sullen reply of Menouf.

"Power," replied Zadoran, "is at the best a dangerous and precarious boon.—Wealth brings care of which industrious poverty is ignorant."

"Were they in my grasp," said the discontented Musselman, "I would know how to use them."

The genius frowned, but as Menouf followed the pointing of his finger, he beheld the dark clouds dissipate on one side of him, and an extensive desert appeared through their shadowy mists. An immense caravan was proceeding along its sands, laden with all the treasures of Arabia. As he gazed, the wind arose—the sands became like the troubled waves of the sea—and another moment beheld nearly the whole caravan buried in the mountains of moving sand. The few that escaped fell into the hands of robbers.

The scene changed. A fleet, sporting in the noon-tide beams of the sun, was riding on a sea whose billows seemed proud to do homage to their burthen. Innumerable forms were seated on the prows in joyous exultation. They were laden with the gems of Golconda, and the spices of India; the very streamers that wantoned on the breeze, were made of the finest silk from the looms of Cashmere, and the dazzling foam of the ocean was compelled to yield in whiteness to the sails that fluttered from the masts.—In the foremost appeared a man richly attired, his countenance sparkling with pleasure and self-congratulation. The riches he had acquired seemed almost to have deprived him of reason; and he gave his orders with the most extravagant gestures. The fleet past on:—and the scene suddenly altering its appearance, presented a dark and dreary shore on which the waves were beating with restless fury. The vessels which before were so exulting, now again were seen—but laboring with the storm that rent the heavens and furrowed the bosom of the deep. To the ears of Menouf now came the voice of despondency, the shriek of despair, and the dying moan of pain, mingled with the wild wailings of the blast.

He turned shuddering from the prospect. Again he looked, but the fleet was seen no more. On the bare and barren beach he beheld its master, stripped of all his wealth, and cast on shore to perish. He was raving in all the anguish of disappointed desire. As Menouf continued to gaze, the countenance of the merchant appeared to change. He marked it steadfastly—it was his own!

A strain of enrapturing music was now heard, while the scenes of horror slowly moved away. Zadoran again motioned the youth to the parting clouds. He beheld a sovereign, crowned by the hands of a rejoicing populace, and attended by a procession more sumptuous than ever followed a caliph of Mahomet. He saw crowds kneeling to receive his blessing, and flowers and incense strewed along his path. His eyes followed him to the throne. By his side was seated a princess, lovlier than imagination can depict. Happiness seemed their inevitable destiny.

"Such, such,"—exclaimed Menouf—"may I become! Thus powerful—thus happy, what might I not effect!"

Zadoran answered not, and Menouf, casting his glance again upon the shadowy semblance of sovereignty, beheld him seized by traitors, and hurled from his throne. His favors had been too partial; his actions had not been universally pleasing. The queen was despoiled of her beauty, and banished from the realm. The acclamations of thousands were succeeded by the murmur of execration and the insolence of rebellion. The palace suddenly became a dungeon, and the ambitious beholder saw the once glorious monarch, deprived of sight, and his countenance distorted with poison.

"The vision passed away.—"Art thou satisfied?" asked Zadoran; art thou convinced of the miseries of wealth and power?"—

"Thou hast only," said Menouf, "represented to me the dark sides of the pictures;—the evils there depicted might have been prevented, and they happen but to few."

"Have then they wish," replied the Genius;—"to-morrow await the guidings of thy destiny."—So saying, he vanished in another peal of thunder; the rocks were again shaken; and when the clouds were past, Menouf perceived that mid-night was already come. He hastened home, and dreamed of power and grandeur.

On the following day, immediately after the second hour of prayer, in the afternoon, an old man of venerable appearance presented himself to the anxious Menouf. They entered into a conversation, in which the youth soon disclosed the secrets of his breast. "I have," said the stranger, "travelled long and far: I have gained experience in my journeys, and my assistance may be of use to you. Will you follow me?"

He needed to add no more. Menouf was ready in a few moments, and as he left the out of Abouali, he did not even shed a tear; so much had his expectations taken possession of his mind.

They soon joined a caravan, which was going to the coast of the happy Arabia.—Before they reached their destination, they were met by robbers, and plundered of every thing. Menouf began to dread the realization of the vision he had once beheld; but his guide quieted him, by assuring him that it was too common an accident to suffer it to make any impression.

In this desolate condition, they arrived at the sea-coast, and finding a vessel ready to sail for India, they embarked without hesitation. After having been several weeks out without discovering land, the pilot perceived that he had, from some unaccountable cause, lost his direction, and in the course of the same night a storm arose which drove them on a reef of rocks. Every soul perished, but the two adventurers. They gained the shore, which was wild and desolate; and Menouf, more than half repenting of his enterprize, reproaching the old man with their misfortune. As they wandered along the coast, his companion suddenly exclaimed—"Allah be praised," we are on the shore of a rich and populous island. In yonder rocks lies a talisman, which is worth all our toil.

The ambition and the hopes of Menouf again taking fire, they hurried onward, till they reached a strange excavation in the rocks. They descended by rudely hewn steps in total darkness. When they reached the bottom, the old man let go his hold on Menouf, without uttering a word. A sound like a departing foot-

His heart beat violently, and his whole frame was agitated; but just as he was about to exert his voice to call his companion, an unexpected roar, like that of thunder, shook the vault, the earth trembled, and his recollection forsook him. When he was restored to sense he found himself lying on the shore bruised and bleeding, but a faintness overcame every faculty.

He remained in the same situation, till pain and famine roused him from his stupor. He recollected the past events, and went the recollection of his father's abode. He looked around him, but his guide no where appeared; an extensive plain, bounded by rocks on one side, and by the sea on another, met his eyes. In the bitterness of his soul he accused heaven, the genius, and the old man, of conspiring to destroy him.

He arose, and having bathed his wounds in waves, crawled along the inhospitable stand, solacing his hunger, with the scanty contents of the few shell-fish he found scattered along his way. In this manner he succeeded in preserving life till the close of another day. Unable to support himself any longer, he then sank on the ground in total insensibility. The energies of both mind and body were completely exhausted. A.

New-York, Oct. 27.

Letters from New-Orleans mention, that the fever in that city was abating among the Americans, but that the Creoles still suffered by its ravages. The most exorbitant charges have been exacted for services rendered the unhappy victims of this fatal malady. Attendance was charged at the extravagant rate of $9 a day—$25 for a rough, unplained coffin—and $8 for the use of the hearse. These excessive extortions are a disgrace to humanity.

There was a report in circulation at N. Orleans, of lord Cochran's arrival off Appachicola, with a frigate and other armed vessels; and it was said that his lordship meditated an attack on Pensacola!

There was a smart blow at New-Orleans on the 26d ult. which did some trifling injury in the suburbs, and partly prostrated the cane on several plantations. The gale was more severe near the Balize, where several vessels were dismasted, and driven ashore.

Mammoth Pumpkin.—A pumpkin was raised the present season at the country place of the hon. Richard Riker, recorder of this city, at Hell Gate, which weighed 204½ pounds.

A letter was yesterday received in this city, (via Philadelphia) dated Nassau, N. P. Oct. 9, which states that Sir Gregor M Gregor and colonel Woodbine had arrived there from Amelia Island.

The schooner Eliza & Ann, which had sailed from Charleston for Savannah, returned on the 19th instant to Charleston in consequence of its being very sickly. 12 persons had died at Savannah on the day the schooner arrived. A ship and brig had gone up, but sailed immediately. A ship had also sailed from Savannah with passengers.

Potomac Fisheries.

THE proprietors & occupiers of Fisheries on this river, are requested to meet at Brown's tavern in Alexandria on the last Monday in November next, at the hour of twelve o'clock, to agree upon measures for preventing the destructive effects of Tide or Gill Nets, which have been unlawfully set in our waters, and have within the three last seasons so greatly lessened the number of shad and herrings taken at the best landings. It is earnestly and respectfully requested that all interested herein from the mouth of the river upwards, will attend punctually, that we may prepare memorials to the Legislatures of Maryland and Virginia, which are shortly to convene, and that we may act in concert in whatever may be resolved upon, touching a matter of such public as well as private interest. Land for Sale.

IF early application is made, I will dispose of 400 acres of the CEDAR GROVE tract of land. There is surplus timber and fire wood enough on the part I purpose selling to pay, with judicious management, more than half the purchase money, at the price I ask. The situation is healthy, and the land fertile. Contiguity to market is also among its advantages; it being within less than a mile of Mr. Jonathan Janney's mill, where the Alexandria price may be had for grain. Persons wishing to purchase will apply to the subscriber, residing at Cedar Grove, ten miles below Alexandria, and one below Janney's mill.

A valuable Farm for Sale.

THE SUBSCRIBER will sell, on reasonable terms, a valuable and productive farm of 600 acres, or thereabouts—being part of the lands of the late Richard Brent, lying on Kettle Run in the county of Prince William, in the state of Virginia—20 miles from the Occoquan Mills—33 miles from Alexandria, and about the same distance from Georgetown and the City of Washington. This farm lies in the centre of an excellent neighborhood—is handsomely situated—abundantly watered, and has upon it an ample proportion of wood. The soil is naturally strong, and a considerable portion of it has for some years past, been cultivated according to the most approved rules of modern husbandry—Possession will be given on the first day of January next. The terms upon which this property will be sold, will be made known upon application to George L. Brent, of Stafford County, Va. or to the subscriber living in Alexandria.

Rich Kenhawa Lands for Sale or Barter.

I WILL sell or exchange, for property in this district or its vicinity, a valuable tract of land in Mason county, Virginia, situate on the Great Kenhawa River, at the mouth of Eighteen Mile Creek, distant from Point Pleasant about eighteen miles. This tract binds upon the river, and contains by patent one thousand and fifty acres, a large proportion of which is rich bottom. The title is old, and indisputable, having been located and surveyed by Gen. Washington before the Revolution. What may be considered as adding much to its value is the passage of the western road thro' it. By a reference to Mr. Madison's map of Virginia, the situation of the land may be designated. Apply to Colonel Francis Peyton, or

N. B. Masters of vessels and others are forewarned against carrying off said runaway.

Fifty Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY, on Saturday evening, the 11th inst. my mulatto man, named NED, commonly called NED M'RAE alias SHIRWING. He is about 23 or 24 years of age, 5 feet 8 or 9 inches high, and was raised in Manchester. Ned is well made, high forehead and large flat nose: had on when he went away a grey coat and pantaloons, but as he was well provided with cloathing of various kinds, it is probable he may have changed his dress. It is believed he went off with his wife, who it appears left Richmond at the same time: she is very black, and, I believe, somewhat pitted with the small pox, talks a great deal, of short stature, and rather thick made. Ned is very artful, and may probably attempt to pass for a free man; he has a down look when spoken to. The above reward will be given if taken out of Richmond or Manchester, and twenty-five dollars if taken in either place, and all reasonable expenses paid for delivering him to the subscriber. John Jackson & Co.

James Kennedy & Son,

BOOKSELLERS,

KING-STREET, ALEXANDRIA,

RESPECTFULLY inform the public that they have just received from Lee's Medicine Store, No. 46, Maiden lane, New-York, a fresh supply of the following valuable MEDICINES:

Hamilton's Worm-destroying Lozenges,

Which have within sixteen years past cured an immense number of persons of both sexes of every age and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from WORMS, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of as operating with violence; on the contrary a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent & is so mild in its operation that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old should no worms exist in the body; but will without pain or griping cleanse the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

Description of Worms, and the symptoms by which they are known.

Worms which infest the human body are chiefly of four kinds viz.—The Teres or large round worm; the Ascarides or small maw-worm; the Cucurbitine or short flat white worm; and lastly, the Tænia or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food and sometimes voracious; purging with slimy and fœtid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; pains in the head and thighs and lowness of spirits; slow fever with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent "the vomiting and purging of children"—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

The Restorative Powder for the Teeth and Gums.

For the prevention and cure of BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS is recommended

HAHN'S ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficatious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

Hamilton's Elixir,

A sovereign remedy for colds, obstinate coughs, asthmas, sore throats, catarrhs, and approaching consumptions.—To parents who have children afflicted with the HOOPING COUGH, this discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorders to which children are liable. The Elixir is perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small that no difficulty arises in taking it.
